

Bronze Sinks

About Bronze Sinks

Polaris bronze sinks are available in a variety of shapes and sizes. Whether a top-mounted, under-mounted, or vessel style basin is chosen, the forms range from simple symmetrical bowls to organic configurations. The bronze of a Polaris sink is primarily a blend of two metals – copper and tin, with a few minor elements included sparsely. These natural components come together to offer a sink with an aura of days long past and a charm all its own.

