FAQ

How long will it take for my Furinno® mattress to fully recover after unpacking?

You may sleep on your new Furinno® mattress as soon as it's unpacked. However, depending on the temperature and length of time it has been packed, you should allow up to 48 hours for the mattress to expand to its proper shape and size.

My Furinno® mattress has a slight odor, is it normal?

Yes, this is very normal since the mattress has been wrapped in a plastic bag. Let your mattress breathe, by removing the plastic bag and waiting a few days before putting the sheets on. This odor is harmless and may take up to 7 days for the odor to fully dissipate.

How do I clean my Furinno® mattress?

Your mattress can be spot washed using a damp cloth and water. The use of washing detergent and a washing machine is not recommended as it may void the warranty.

Does my new Furinno® mattress require a mattress pad?

We recommend using a mattress pad, in order to prolong your mattress life and to protect and keep your bedding clean. Stains, soiling, fluid penetration or other signs of abuse may void the warranty.

Can I put my Furinno® mattress on my current foundation?

Yes. Furinno® mattresses have been designed to be used with any quality foundation or platform bed, providing it has the proper support. Using an improper bed frame or foundation may void the warranty and make the mattress ineligible for repair or replacement.

My Furinno mattress is wrinkled, why?

Your new Furinno mattress fabric may be wrinkled in particular areas. This is completely normal due to the compression packaging process and will smooth out over time and use.
