PAUL STONER'S LEGACY

Stoner, Inc. is a third-generation, family-owned company founded by Paul Stoner in 1942. Based in Quarryville, PA, the company has remained rooted in the values of patience and persistence characterized by its founder.

Paul Stoner learned the value of hard work and discipline on his parents' farm. He also learned to persevere through hardship. At the age of eight, his mother died of sudden heart failure. His father remarried, but when Paul was twelve, his father died from tetanus. Unable to manage the farm, his stepmother sold the property.

Raised by family friends and relatives during the Great Depression, Paul directed his energy towards school and part-time jobs. At school he excelled in math and science, prompting his employer to encourage him to apply at a local college.

In 1938 Paul graduated with a chemistry degree from Franklin & Marshall College. After graduation he worked for several chemical companies but grew frustrated after one laid him off and another went bankrupt.

In 1942, he moved back to Quarryville and founded the Stoner Ink Company, which specialized in printing inks. To make ends meet, Paul worked part-time jobs, one of which was at a tire plant struggling to produce defect-free tires.

Because Stoner listened and considered how to meet people's needs, he formulated a lubricant that quickly and easily released tires from molds. His employer soon became his customer along with other rubber molders.

In the 1950s Stoner earned a reputation as an innovator of mold lubricants for the rubber and plastic industries. By the 1960s, America's leading automotive and electronic manufacturers came to Stoner for lubrication and cleaning solutions.

In the 1970s Stoner expanded into the automotive appearance market with auto polishes and waxes.

In the 1980s Paul Stoner's grandson, Robert L. Ecklin, Jr., purchased the company and has built on his grandfather's foundation by developing category-leading brands such as Invisible Glass, America's #1 selling automotive glass cleaner.

Today Stoner manufactures a wide variety of branded cleaners and lubricants for consumer retailers, manufacturers, service businesses, government agencies, and universities worldwide. Stoner is a recognized leader in the plastics, urethane, composites, rubber, electronics, detailing, and car wash industries.

Paul Stoner passed away in March 1986, but his values and legacy are ingrained in the company's culture. His practice of listening to people and meeting their needs still characterizes Team Stoner as it pursues its vision of performance and excellence with passion.

AUTOMOTIVE HERITAGE

Stoner Car Care products grew naturally from plastics molding. In the 1960s Stoner developed the first aerosol dressing called “No-Rub Polish,” which restored shine to faded auto trim without wiping. It quickly became a favorite of auto dealers and detailers. In the 1970s and 1980s new cleaners, waxes, and polishes were added and in the 1990s Stoner offered concentrates for self serve and automatic car washes. Today Stoner Car Care products are preferred by car wash, detailing, and restoration professionals worldwide.

As Stoner Car Care products gained favor with professionals, consumers increasingly requested to purchase them. In 1996 Stoner Car Care products were first offered in automotive retail stores and their popularity grew.

Invisible Glass became America’s #1 selling automotive glass cleaner in 2009 and has retained that ranking ever since. As demand increased for its streak-free performance and superior cleaning power, it was made available in pump spray bottles and wipes canisters.

Before long Invisible Glass was available in automotive retailers as a two-in-one glass cleaner with rain repellent, a Reach and Clean tool, lens wipes, windshield washer fluid, wiper blades, and rain repellent and anti-fog windshield treatments.

As automotive demand grew, women began requesting to purchase Invisible Glass in the household cleaning aisle. In 2012 Invisible Glass was launched at grocery stores where its popularity has steadily grown. Today Invisible Glass is a recognized, trusted glass care brand.
